Some maintenance tasks are universal. We all need our offices, windows, and carpets cleaned. These are recurring tasks you outsource, as they can be done more efficiently and expertly by others. So why treat your lighting maintenance any differently?

City Wide manages commercial lighting maintenance for all building types. The average commercial building contains multiple lighting styles and varieties: security lights, decorative lights, canopy lights, and task lights.

Your City Wide Facility Services Manager can help you create a maintenance plan that includes scheduling and supplies for all of the lighting types in your building.

The real costs of inefficient lighting

Choosing the wrong bulb not only affects energy usage and bulb life, but also disrupts the natural flow of light. This can cause poor contrast, flicker, and glare, which are not just safety hazards—they are proven to reduce worker productivity.

Outsourcing your lighting maintenance to City Wide ensures all of your lighting types have the right bulb and replacement schedules to operate most efficiently.

Upgrading to LED technology can make a big improvement on the efficiency and quality of your building's lighting. City Wide can convert your building to this new lighting type, saving you money in electricity costs.
